THE WEATHER

Very winter-like weather is predicted for the weekend: snow flurries, wind and colder temperatures. The sun rises today at 6:55 a.m. and sets at 6:12 p.m. Friday's 7 a.m. report: high, 30; low, 18; precipitation, zero.

KINZUA DAM REPORT

Allegheny River Reservoir measurements for Friday: pool level, 1278.21 (desired summer pool 1328, maximum 1365); downstream temperature, 34; Warren gauge, 2.31 ft.

WARREN COUNTY

A fourth patient at Warren State Hospital has apparently come down with spinal meningitis. The hospital reported Friday a patient from Mercer County was showing symptoms of the disease. Two patients at the hospital died from the disease this past week.

Directors of the Forest Industries Historical Museum at Sheffield have met with William M. Richards, director of Museums, Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. Richards pointed out ways for the museum's backers to obtain matching funds from the state and suggested the manner in which the museum might best be set up. The McMillen Lumber Co. has donated the former Tionesta Valley Railroad station as a home for the museum.

PENNSYLVANIA

A judge in Pittsburgh Friday ordered the use of force if necessary to stop striking teachers from picketing public schools. The local teachers' union head, however, said no force would be needed. "We're not interested in going to jail," he said.

THE NATION

Congressional members of the President's riot commission said Friday the group's report should give a strong push to civil rights bills now under consideration. But there were signs that the report changed few Southern congressmen's minds.

Police officials have expressed opposition to the presidential riot panel's views on the use of anti-riot weapons. Several police departments are stocking up on armaments with an eye to possible civil disorder this summer.

Senate leaders were four votes short Friday of the majority needed to close out debate on open housing legislation. The leaders will try again Monday.

Gov. Rockefeller moved closer to open candidacy for the White House Friday, saying "I am ready and willing to serve the American people if called."

Teacher strikes in three states closed some schools and kept thousands of pupils away from classrooms in others Friday. At San Francisco, hundreds of students roamed through a strike-closed school, smashing windows as teachers picketed,

THE WORLD

An onslaught by 500 North Vietnamese infantrymen at Khe Sanh was repulsed by South Vietnamese Rangers assigned to one sector of the U.S. Marine base. In support of the allies, B52 bombers struck only 750 yards from the base's barbed wire.

Rome saw its worst rioting in a decade Friday as a bloody three-hour battle was waged between students and police. The students want reform of Italy's university system.

South Vietnamese President Thieu was denied special emergency powers by the nation's House of Representatives. Thieu had requested powers in addition to those he wields under martial law, in effect now for a month.

Marines at protective outposts in the hills around Khe Sanh are taking a cruel beating from enemy barrages. Officers say it is impossible to evacuate or reinforce the positions significantly. Even getting food and water to the positions is extremely difficult.

CHOIR PREPARES FOR CONCERT

Carroll Fowler puts the A Cappella Choir through a rehearsal for its upcoming concert March 14 at 8:15 p.m. in the Warren Area High School auditorium. The program includes a variety of works both sacred and popular. A highlight of the evening will be a performance of Paul Whare's "Forever Thy Work, Alleluia," accompanied by the high school orchestra. The Madrigal Singers also will perform on the program. Tickets are on sale by choir members and at the B & B Smoke Shop. (Photo by Mansfield)

Strikes Affect Schools in Three States

Teacher strikes in three states closed some schools and kept thousands of pupils away from classrooms in others Friday.

Hundreds of students roamed through Balboa High School in San Francisco, smashing windows as their teachers picketed outside. Strikes in Pittsburgh and Florida were less violent, but effective.

Florida's two-week-old walk out remained a stalemate Friday as the Cabinet Board of Education put off until Monday any action on a compromise solution offered by State School Supt. Floyd Christian. Some members of the board called it a "labor contract."

Earlier, county boards in Clearwater, Jacksonville and Pensacola rejected the compromise plan, formed in talks between Christian and officials of the Florida Education Association.

The strike by a third of the state's 60,000 teachers has kept more than 500,000 of 1.3 million Florida public school children out of class.

Christian challenged the board to propose a better solution and charged Gov. Claude Kirk's plan to allow a controversial $254.4 million educational package to become law March 7 would not end the strike.

Kirk, a Republican, said Thursday he would allow the package to become law and withhold his veto as long as the Democratic board did not secretly negotiate with the NEA, which organized the strike.

In San Francisco, police dispatched four police cars to Balboa High School, scene of the worst outbreak as students ran loose in and around many schools. The striking American Federation of Teacher, AFL-CIO, reported "complete chaos" at many of the picketed institutions. The union voted Thursday to strike and picket lines were out Friday morning at junior and senior high schools and at most elementary schools.

School administrators in San Francisco said they would try to keep the schools open despite the walkout by about a third of the city's 4,000 teachers.

Elementary schools were kept open largely by teachers belonging to the rival San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association. Most of its 2,600 members teach in elementary schools.

Rome Has Worst Riot In a Decade

ROME (AP) — The worst rioting in Rome in a decade exploded Friday in a bloody three-hour battle between thousands of left-wing university students and police.

The fighting climaxed more than three weeks of agitation by University of Rome students for reform of the country's entire university system. Students in other cities also have been demonstrating for more say in school administration and more modern teaching methods.

Hundreds of persons were injured in the melee. Students swinging chains and wielding stumps of broken bottles fought with helmeted police swinging clubs. Police also fired tear gas among the rioting students.

Students stoned police cars and stopped passing automobiles to use as barricades. Five police vehicles were set afire during the fighting.

The battle broke out at the University of Rome's School of Architecture on the edge of Villa Borghese Park, and swirled through streets leading down to the main Piazza di Spagna.

The order would set minimum prices paid to dairymen for milk. Ballots must be returned by March 15.

Striking Teachers Face Use of Force

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A judge ordered Friday the use of force if necessary to stop striking teachers from picketing public schools.

The head of the teachers' union said the biggest picket line Pittsburgh had ever seen would be set up in front of the Board of Education headquarters Monday morning. But he said no force would be needed to stop picketing at schools.

The judge issued orders Wednesday night prohibiting the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers and its parent union, the American Federation of Teachers, from striking. He also banned picketing of the city's 112 schools.

But the strike began on schedule Thursday morning, and picketing teachers showed up at most schools in their drive for a collective bargaining election.

About 1,000 of the city's 3,000 teachers are federation members and were off the job. Most other teachers reported for duty.

The school board, plagued by a short staff in secondary schools and rowdy pupils, closed all 24 junior and senior highs Friday. The city's 88 elementary schools with about 50,000 pupils remaining open, but many had chilly classrooms as maintenance men lowered temperatures in sympathy with striking teachers.

Pupil absenteeism ran about 20 per cent in the elementary schools.

3-Car Accident Causes Injuries

Ruth C. Waite, 31, 10 Park st., N. Warren, suffered minor injuries Friday night when the car in which she was a passenger was involved in a three-vehicle chain reaction accident.

Police said cars operated by Harold Waite, 39, of the North Warren address, and Elton C. Nelson, 401 Jackson Run rd., were headed south on Market st. and were stopped for the light at the intersection with Second ave. A truck driven by Elton L. Wenzel, 37, 125 Dutch Hill rd., also southbound, failed to stop in time, hitting Neil's car and driving it into the Waite vehicle, they said. Damage was set at $1,000.

"The Maharishi didn't really want us to leave. He kept asking us if everything was all right. He suggested that perhaps we should go off somewhere and take a holiday and then go back to the meditation center, but we wanted to come home,"

Two Treated For Injuries In Car Mishap

Three persons were taken to Warren General Hospital Friday morning after their car skidded on Rt. 6 east of Sheffield and overturned, state police reported.

The driver, John R. Watkins, 26, 318 Baker st., Jamestown, N.Y., was treated for lacerations of the head and hands. His wife Jacqueline, 26, was treated for pain in the shoulder and knee and their two-and-a-half year-old son, John Jr., was examined and found uninjured. Damage was set at $1,700.

Earlier, slippery conditions contributed to a car-truck collision on Rt. 6 four miles west of Warren. A tractor trailer truck operated by Edward Davis, 51, Star Rd., Leeper, tried to stop for an unidentified vehicle and skidded into a car operated by Seymour B. Lonyai, 61, 53 Nomanegan st., Crawford, N.J., troopers said. No injuries were reported.

Two cars collided on Rt. 62 north of Warren Friday afternoon when they attempted to pass a cinder truck simultaneously. Troopers said Lester M. Campman, 38, 1414 Hazel st., Warren attempted to pass the car ahead operated by A. Twedt, 71, RD6, Johnstown and the truck and as he passed, Twedt also pulled out to pass.

U.S., Denmark To Scoop Up 'Hot' Snow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Denmark have decided to scoop up snow contaminated by the shattering of four B52-carried hydrogen bombs off Greenland and return it to this country.

The Defense Department disclosed the plan Friday in response to questions from The Associated Press.

The radioactive snow lies over a flame-blackened area of frozen bay off the Greenland coast where the big Strategic Air Command bomber went down Jan. 22.

"This material will be stored at Thule Air Base, Greenland, in sealed metal containers for subsequent shipment to the United States during the summer shipping season for final disposal," the Pentagon said.

Ships cannot get to Thule until the bay thaws in summer.

"Since the depth of the snow varies, actual tonnage cannot be determined at this time," the Pentagon said, adding that perhaps none of the seven-foot-thick ice will have to be removed. "Except in the impact area, the contamination is in the snow on top of the ice."

Officials maintain that only low-level, relatively harmless Alpha radiation was released when the 1.1-megaton bombs broke apart in the fiery crash.

Presumably the United States agreed nonetheless to remove any hint of hazard to ease fears of the Danes, who own Greenland.

Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard O. Hunziker, in charge of the recovery operation code named Project Crested Ice, terms the removal "a matter of good housekeeping."

California Senate Bill 400 states it is unlawful for any person to solicit payment of money by another by means of an invoice or statement or any writing that could be interpreted as a statement or invoice for goods not yet ordered or for service not yet performed and not ordered unless there appears on the face of the statement or invoice in 30-point bold-face type the following warning:

The 11-member President's Commission on Civil Disorders, reporting on its investigation of last summer's riots, declared Thursday night that "weapons which are designed to destroy, not to control, have no place in densely populated urban communities."

"The commission condemns moves to equip police departments with mass destruction weapons, such as automatic rifles, machine guns and tanks," the report said.

In Monroe County, Mich., which adjoins Detroit, Chief Deputy Walter Towbridge, responded: "I don't think the commission's comment makes much sense at all."

Monroe County has ordered a $13,500 armored car and other special riot control weapons—100 rifles, 15,000 rounds of ammunition and flak vests.

Officers must have weapons for their own protection and they must be equipped to immediately apply whatever force is needed—have it on hand," Towbridge said. "It isn't something you can get tomorrow or next week if you need it now."

In Washington, the leading spokesman for the nation's police chiefs said reports of local departments stockpiling heavy weapons have been exaggerated.

"I've only heard of one police department that has ordered an armored car—that's the Virginia State Police," said Quinn

Legality of Phoney 'Bills' Is Checked by Warren Man

A Warren man in January took steps to test the legality of a recent epidemic of directory solicitations in the form of bills which indicated they were for inclusion in the famed telephone company "yellow pages."

Locally and in other areas towns and cities, business firms received bills for classified advertising in a directory, most of which originated in California. Various Chamber of Commerce organizations issued warnings.

Samuel C. Dunning, of 2019 Pennsylvania ave., wrote the Attorney General of California and was advised the Department of Justice had sent letters to a number of directory solicitation companies on the west coast to clarify its position since the passage on November 8, 1967 of Senate Bill 400.

Walter E. White, attorney general, noted that since the bill went into effect, it has resulted in the termination in California of directory solicitations similar to the one received in this area.

White stated, however, that the State of California does not have jurisdiction to interfere with solicitations sent from there to other states.

The attorney general further said that in an attempt to solve the problem, the federal government has brought several actions in the eastern states against companies sending such solicitations. He suggested that Dunning contact postal authorities or the U.S. Department of Justice.

California Senate Bill 400 states it is unlawful for any person to solicit payment of money by another by means of an invoice or statement or any writing that could be interpreted as a statement or invoice for goods not yet ordered or for service not yet performed and not ordered unless there appears on the face of the statement or invoice in 30-point bold-face type the following warning:

Any person damaged by non-compliance with this section, in addition to other remedies, is entitled to damages in the amount equal to three times the sum solicited."

The Consumer Fraud Unit in California further warned directory solicitation companies the Attorney General would prosecute for injunctions against violations of the statute and that forms used by various firms were among materials submitted to the legislature when it was acting upon Senate Bill 400.

Chautauqua County Charter Presented

JAMESTOWN, N.Y.—Chautauqua County residents will soon have the opportunity to view the proposed new county charter. It was announced in Mayville Friday that the County Government Study Commission will present its proposed charter to the board of supervisors in April.

The commission, which has been studying county charters for more than a year, has not revealed any of the articles to be contained in the proposed document. Most of the meetings of the commission were held behind closed doors, with no statement being made to the press except that the commission was considering various approaches to certain problems.

According to government officials in Mayville, no partial information on the new charter will be released until the as yet undesignated date in April.

ConCon Proposals Are Worded Tightly

BY WILLIAM E. DEIBLER

HARRISBURG (AP)—The 1967-68 Constitutional Convention's final proposals, adopted after hundreds of hours of debate, will appear on the April 23 primary election ballot as five tightly worded questions.

Adoption of the ballot questions was one of the convention's last official acts before it finally adjourned at 10:41 p.m., Thursday, 91 days after it opened.

The five questions represent seven major proposals designed to modernize four articles of the state's 94-year-old Old Constitution: the judiciary, state taxation and finance, local government and legislative apportionment.

Here are the questions as they will appear on the primary ballot:

— Shall Proposals 1 and 2 on LOCAL GOVERNMENT, adopted by the Constitutional Convention, providing for home rule for all units of local government, optional forms of government, uniform procedures for merger, consolidation and boundary change, intergovernmental cooperation and area governments, local finance and debt limits, apportionment and related matters, be approved?

— Shall Proposals 6 on LOCAL GOVERNMENT, adopted by the Constitutional Convention, providing for home rule for all units of local government, optional forms of government, uniform procedures for merger, consolidation and boundary change, intergovernmental cooperation and area governments, local finance and debt limits, ap

BY FRANKLIN R. HOFF

As a result of a conference last week in Sheffield with William M. Richards, director of Museums, Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, from Harrisburg, directors of the Forest Industries Historical Museum of Sheffield have set their course on a program for its development into one of the top-flight museums in the East.

The meeting with Richards, was arranged by William W. Allen, assemblyman for the 56th District, Warren and Forest Counties. Allen has been devoting much time and effort with state museum officials in Harrisburg on behalf of the new Sheffield museum, and has had a number of conferences over recent weeks with Forest Industries Historical Museum directors and members.

Bruce Smith, president of Forest Industries Historical Museum, believes the meeting with Richards marks a great step forward toward realizing the goals of the new museum.

Richards counseled the group on appropriate steps to obtain matching funds for development of the project. He made practical suggestions as to how the museum might best be set up to completely fulfill its function and create maximum public interest. He gave a clear blueprint of step-by-step procedures for making the Sheffield museum a notable institution and prime tourist attraction.

It was pointed out the historic former Tionesta Valley Railroad Station, generously donated by Wendell McMillen of McMillen Lumber Company as a home for the museum, as well as other items given to it, can be counted toward matching funds to rehabilitate the building and develop it.

Assemblyman Allen reported that State Senator Richard Frame of Franklin is cooperating completely with him in furthering the museum's interests. The will introduce appropriate legislation which may become necessary to authorize matching funds.

Outdoor writer Don Neal, a director of the Sheffield museum, commented to William Richards that Sheffield is unquestionably one of the few communities in the entire region that could undertake proper development of such a project, because of the cooperative spirit of the citizens. He also emphasized the fact that, with its rich history of lumbering and one of the most modern lumber mills is still operating there, makes Sheffield the proper location of such a museum serving the entire region.

A first step in the program to rehabilitate the old Tionesta Valley Railroad Station for the museum will be to retain an architect to provide drawings to support the project. As a preliminary step Don Lang is preparing drawings with accurate measurements of the building and floor plans for use of such consulting architects. Much work has already been done on the building, but it requires a new roof, considerable repairs and complete rehabilitation.

Bruce A. Smith, historian of the Sheffield region, and president of the Forest Industries Historical Museum, expressed on behalf of the board and members, appreciation for William Richards' assistance, and for Assemblyman William Allen's bringing him to Sheffield.

Mrs. Frances Ramsey, archivist of Warren County Historical Society and a director of the Sheffield museum, assures the whole-hearted cooperation of the Society in every way to further its interests. Mrs. Ramsey is a nationally prominent historical authority and lecturer.

Bill Rusin, curator of the museum, congratulated Assemblyman Allen on his support. He also displayed the new emblem for the museum, created by Clearfield artist Ronald Marino. Against a background of tall pines, the design, triangular in form, depicts on the left an old time logging locomotive and train, and on the right a team of horses dragging logs.

The museum was originally formed March 30, 1967. For-

Grand Valley Fire Dept. Plans Dinner

The recently formed Grand Valley Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring a dinner to be held Wednesday, March 6, at Wesley Woods Methodist camp from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The dinner will be followed by an informational meeting to bring residents up to date on progress made by the new department.

Tickets are on sale at Neely's Service Station, the Grand Valley Barber Shop or from members of the fire department. All residents of Eldred and Southwest Townships who are to be served by the fire department, are invited to attend.

Members of the new fire department met last Saturday to decide on construction of a fire house with a fire siren and a committee was appointed to prepare a draft of a constitution and by-laws to accompany the application for official chartering of the group. It was reported that the fire truck purchased in February had been freshly painted.

Also reported were donations totaling $440 from area residents. The department expressed its gratitude to the contributors: Maurice Tompkins, Donald Morrison, Paul Perkins, Robert Graham, Richard Lacy, Raymond Gates, Michael Savitz, Robert Chambers, Charles Hollabaugh, Alva Fuller, Vencil Sedina, Patrick McGough, Robert Marshall, Vivian Van Guilder, Floyd Beers, Neely's Service Station, Joseph O'Brien, Walter Ward, Kenneth Ellis, Everett Reynolds, Leonard Helker, Charles Ongley, Jan Chappel, Jack Davis, Frank Bristol, Francis Himmer, Bert Chappel, Lee Johnson, Bob and Elmos Wright. Others who wish to help in this effort can do so by contacting Paul Perkins, treasurer, or any of the firemen.

Corry Man Is Wounded

A 23-year-old Corry man was listed in satisfactory condition at Warren General Hospital where he was admitted Thursday with a gunshot wound to the right thigh.

State police trooper Mark Golomb of the Warren substation, who investigated, said Richard Duane Fuller, 37½ E. Bond St., Corry, was target shooting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday on the property of Laura Hopkins, RD 1, Bear Lake, on T-551, one mile northwest of Wrightsville, with a .22 caliber revolver.

Police stated that when Fuller attempted to remove the gun from a holster he was wearing, the gun accidentally discharged and struck his right thigh.

The victim walked to the Hopkins' home; Mrs. Hopkins transported him to the hospital, where surgery to remove the bullet was performed Friday morning.

24 County Farms In Wheat Program

Charles Camp, chairman Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reports that so far during current sign up period in the county, which began February 5, and ends March 15, 24 farms have enrolled in the 1968 voluntary U.S. Dept. of Agriculture wheat program. 41 lots total 311 acres.

Camp reminds farmers that signing up is necessary, first step in qualifying for price-support loans and marketing certificates on 1968 crop wheat. No acreage diversion is provided under the 1968 wheat program.

Nationally, as of February 15, 1968, 236,625 farms had signed up with 14,770,075 acres in allotments. National acreage allotment for 1968 is 59.3 million acres compared to 68.2 million in 1967.

In Pennsylvania, as of February 15, 4,104 farms had signed for participation with 54,086 acres in allotments. National average price-sup-

Playing It Safe

Traffic accidents are responsible for 50,000 deaths a year. This great toll makes it imperative that everyone be traffic safety conscious.

The wise motorist knows that the seat belt represents the best available equipment in reducing critical or fatal injuries.

All occupants of a vehicle should wear seat belts--at all times. It is a fact that over half of the accidents causing injury or death occur at speeds less than 40 miles per hour, and that three out of four traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of home.

It has been estimated that if all motorists used seat belts, more than 5,000 lives would be saved each year and injuries reduced by

Conversational Counselling And Compost

By Bernie Wingert, County Agent

There are certainly a lot of people listening to Roy Schneek's "Just Stuff". The other morning I discussed "milk; natural, filled, imitation, synthetic, or substitute" with Roy, and following the program the questions left unanswered must have been very great in number because I surely got a lot more. Let's review the problem briefly.

Dairymen all over the country are more than a little concerned over the introduction of imitative milk products. Meetings and conferences of organizations representing various segments of the dairy industry are devoted to briefings of the current situation. In a nut shell what is happening is simply that butterfat is being removed from milk and it is being replaced with vegetable oil. Why? It's a matter of dollars and cents. Vegetable oils are cheaper than butterfat. Before World War I, techniques were developed to remove butterfat from milk and replace it with lower cost vegetable oils. These techniques were quite successful when applied to evaporated milk and cheese.

For many years the Federal Government and all but two states had laws or regulations declaring "filled milk" to be illegal. But this is now changed and recent indications are that "filled milk" properly labeled and packaged is legal in many states.

To make sure now what we're talking about, let's define several terms -- "Filled Milk" is a product made by combining fats or oils other than butterfat with milk solids. Usually these products are vegetable fats added to skim milk or to nonfat powder. Nonfat powder is simply dried skim milk. "Non-Dairy Products" are made by combining fats or oils, other than butterfat, with protein from sources other than milk. What are the materials currently being used? Cocomanut fat added to corn syrup solids, or sodium caseinate or soy flour makes a product that at least looks and tastes white.

There's a little problem here in the definition. Calling it a non-dairy product seems doubtful because sodium caseinate originally comes from milk. Chemical processing changes the calcium caseinate from milk to sodium caseinate.

The quality and flavor of the present "filled milk" products in Pennsylvania are good! Currently the non-dairy product does not have a comparable flavor, but very well might be quite acceptable in a short period of time. Sid Barnard, Extension Dairy Specialist at Penn State, says "the use of fluid skim and vegetable oil results in a product which most persons cannot differentiate from good tasting fresh whole milk."

Finally let's close this column with several remarks made by Alex Black, Associate Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station: "Fresh milk obviously has a new competitor on the horizon. Under present circumstances the competitor is using milk products as a base. If the price of dairy products is not competitive, non-dairy products could, in time, become a real factor providing the public with a substitute type milk at a cheaper price."

Another most important point to be considered is the question of whether butter fat will or can remain indefinitely THE BASIS FOR THE PRICING OF MILK if these developments proceed. From a nutritional standpoint, we have known for around 40 years that fat is not the portion of milk supplying essential nutrients in critical amounts in the diet. It is the non-fat portion that supplies a high quality protein, calcium and riboflavin."

"It is research that has gotten us to the very point we are today. It is research that has shown us on one hand the value of milk nutritionally, and on the other hand it has been involved in putting together various ingredients to make a substitute."

There's little reason to believe this will change, but I for one hope the researchers don't search too hard for a substitute for a good charcoaled sirloin steak!

RICHARD HARATINE

Suggests Separate Pay Scale

An issue of major proportions is taking shape in the battle for higher teachers' salaries nears debate on the floor of the General Assembly. This is the question of nine months of teachers' employment versus 12 months.

The man who is driving the issue into the open is W. Harry McLaughlin, an Indiana, Pa., insurance man, and former president of the Pennsylvania School Boards Association.

McLaughlin wants one salary scale for "a large body of married women staffing our classrooms who are holding teaching positions to supplement a family income."

For them, it's usually extra money, McLaughlin contends. They're not at all in the same professional boat as "a growing number of men teachers who, faced with the responsibility for providing primary support for their respective families, must have year-round employment with sufficient income . . ."

Many married women teachers, says McLaughlin, "neither desire, nor can accept, employment during the summer months when their children are not in school."

For male professionals who can, McLaughlin wants a program that will use their skills on a 12-month basis, with commensurate increases in salary.

Like many another Pennsylvania school director, McLaughlin is battling the fallacy of "annual" salaries that are, in effect, "nine-months" salaries. Conversely, the male teacher must supplement his wages during the summer months with odd jobs, often menial. His real talents are lost to the schools and his school district.

Will the Turnpike raise its tolls? Nobody had asked, but last week Turnpike Chairman Lester F. Burlein came out with a final balloon.

The Northwest Extension still isn't paying its own way--"a financial drag," he calls it.

"Now," says Burlein, "we are faced with the necessity of spending approximately $5 million for new guard rail; if we go ahead with plans to modernize the original section of the Turnpike, between Carlisle and Irwin, . . . we will have no alternative but to look for other sources of revenue."

The Constitutional Convention dialogue after Delegate Richard Gerber (D-Montgomery) called the League of Women Voters "The League of Women Voters" went like this.

"They're sending me letters and they're calling me on the phone, but they didn't even register as lobbyists," said Gerber.

"They even got an office in this Capitol. They are the most insidious lobbyists of this Convention.

"They want to pick off the skin and bones of politicians, but they don't have the courage to run for political office themselves."

Delegate Mildred D. Michael (R-York) tried to get the floor, but Delegate Frank M. Fay (D-Hazleton) was recognized before her. "Where I come from," said Fay, "the League of Women Voters represents the country club set; they don't represent the people." Then Fay had third thought: "In fact, they don't represent anybody."

"They want to pick off the skin and bones of politicians, but they don't have the courage to run for political office themselves."

When Mrs. Michael got the floor, she said she had resigned her position in the League to run for Delegate.

"We do not have party labels attached to our policies," she told the Convention. "We study issues and take a stand; we're not predatory; we make informed judgements."

"But," she explained to the Convention during the debate to allow a panel to select state-wide judges, "the Bill of Rights would have been in bad shape if we had had to depend on the will of the majority."

Licen from Chester County, got in the last blow. "At least the League has been consistent for years," said Thomson.

"They have been wrong more consistently than any group I have seen in my life," Thomson, in private life, is a lobbyist for the State Association of Township Supervisors.

He reconsidered his objection to being called a war lord.

"I think," he said, smiling engagingly, "war lord instead of bad nickname is good nickname, I like this very much, because we are making war."

He recognized that "democratic people are afraid of such powers," but recalled that Congress had granted President Roosevelt special wartime powers during World War II.

Controversial Warlord

PLEIKU—Of the four South Vietnamese war lords, the most controversial was Vinh Loc, who was visited with him shortly before the Saigon government, under U.S. pressure, fired him as corps commander.

At six-feet-two, he is a giant among a race of small men. His appearance is as impressive as his height. He is handsome, dashing, debonair. From the blue silk scarf tucked at the neck to his polished black paratrooper boots, he is the Douglas MacArthur of Vietnam. Here in the central highlands, Vinh Loc has been supreme. His troops, among the best in the country, have enforced his will throughout the second corps area. It is still a question whether he will bow to Saigon's will.

His dismissal was ordered after repeated complaints from American authorities that he was siphoning off U.S. aid into his own pocket.

Vinh Loc candidly discussed with me his powers as a potentate and the charges of corruption against him. He spoke in English with a tantalizing, appealing accent, dramatizing each point with expressive gestures and facial contortions. Now and then, he leaped to his feet, strode to a wall map and struck some feature in his territory with a long, black pointer.

"I wear two hats," he explained. "My first hat is military commander. I have a second that as governor of my corps area. That is why they call me war lord. It is better to call me overlord."

He explained that all the province and district chiefs were military officers.

"How to deal with these people if I am not military?" he asked with a shrug of his facial muscles.

"If you wait until the wheels of government turn," he added, referring to the Saigon government, "it is so far, so long. Many decisions you must make right away instead of sending notes and getting answers four or five weeks later."

He held his head in his hands and rolled the eyes to illustrate what he meant about the exasperations of bureaucracy.

In wartime, he said, "We need decisions right away. There is no time to wait for Saigon, I command; I hit the enemy; I solve the problems. So people will have confidence in me, so people will run to me."

He agreed, however, that officials who extort payments from the people must be punished.

On the question of reforms, however, Vinh Loc suggested that they should be tested on a small scale first.

Meanwhile, Vinh Loc made it clear he would brook no interference from Saigon in his domain. This may be one reason President Nguyen Van Thieu finally forced a showdown. It remains to be seen, however, whether South Vietnam's most spectacular war lord will step down without a fight.

ART BUCHWALD

Found: One Enemy Document

WASHINGTON — As everyone is aware, the best source of information concerning how things are going in Vietnam is captured enemy documents. If it weren't for these captured documents, our political and military leaders would certainly not be as optimistic about the war as they seem to be right now.

By chance I came across an enemy document myself the other day, and it was a windfall because it described how the North Vietnamese were managing to get their captured enemy documents into the hands of the South Vietnamese and Americans.

It seems that Hanoi had turned over the responsibility of manufacturing and distributing captured documents to the 101st Captured Enemy Document Brigade. The headquarters of the 101st CED Brigade is located five stories underground somewhere near the Chinese border. There, under the supervision of the notorious Col. Vinh Su, a Soviet-built mimeograph machine turns out an average of 10,000 enemy documents a day.

Because of wartime conditions these captured documents are printed on a heavy low-grade paper which is one of the main reasons American intelligence believes that Hanoi is ready to throw in the towel. No country can survive long if it has to print its orders on low-grade paper.

But the paper has a twofold purpose. After the documents are printed they are issued to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers as part of their uniform. The captured enemy documents are used as insulation for the wet-weather jackets, as well as for stuffing sandals when the cheap North Vietnamese leather gives out.

It is for this insulation that North Vietnamese soldiers and Viet Cong are so anxious to carry captured enemy documents on themselves. The documents are also used as handkerchiefs and for starting fires, though Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, in a recently captured enemy document, warned his troops that burning a document that could eventually fall into the hands of the Americans was a court-martial offense.

Although all Viet Cong forces are issued captured enemy documents, the 101st CED Brigade is solely charged with carrying the highly classified ones which eventually will get to the Pentagon and then be given to pro-Administration columnists.

The members of the 101st are given extensive training. They are then sent out on patrol with the captured documents hidden in their knapsacks. As soon as they see a South Vietnamese or American unit they throw up their hands and surrender. While being searched they babble that they were all innocently duped by the Communists.

Needless to say, there is a big turnover in the 101st Brigade, particularly when its main mission is to be captured. But the supplying of captured enemy documents to Saigon has highest priority for Hanoi, and the demand for them has increased with each new escalation.

As a matter of fact there is now a black market in captured enemy documents and many South Vietnamese have decided to manufacture them to sell to the various American intelligence agencies.

These captured documents are printed on better paper, and are easier to study since they weren't carried down from the North. Also some enterprising forgers are printing them in English to make them easier for the Americans to read. This has naturally angered the North Vietnamese who have demanded that unless the illicit traffic in captured enemy documents ceases, they will not come to the conference table.

Another Advocate

Earlier this week, we featured in this column a letter from Ken Sorensen in which he stated his views on the year-end high school wrestling tournament system and suggested several possible improvements.

Ironically, Franklin High School's headwrestling coach, Al Shilling, had made some very similar points in the last of a series of articles on wrestling that he had written for the Franklin News-Herald prior to the District meet.

Ken and Al didn't realize they were working for the same goals until they talked at Meadville last Saturday. Each had prepared his treatise before Saturday, but both suggested many of the same changes.

All had made the article available to us and it appears below. He has entitled it "A Criticism of Pennsylvania High School Wrestling Tournaments." It has also been mailed to other news media in the area, and to some of the men who exert control over wrestling tournaments in the state.

If you're a wrestling fan, we think you'll find it interesting.

"At the present time the high school wrestling tournament structure in the state of Pennsylvania is, at best, inadequate, and does not necessarily offer a fair representation of the best wrestlers in this state which, incidentally, considers its schoolboy wrestlers among the best in the nation.

"At the local or sectional level the operation of the tournament is left to the discretion of the tournament manager and/or the participating coaches and any preliminary meetings are usually reduced to shouting contests which are resolved by either a vote or in some instances the toss of a coin.

"Presently for a boy to be advanced from one tournament level to another, that is from sectionals to districts, to regionals, and finally to the state tournament, it is necessary that he be the winner of the above named tournaments.

"In my opinion this system bears inequities that are the cause of many fine athletes being overlooked. It is quite likely that a wrestler who is defeated in a sectional tourney could be the second, third, or fourth best wrestler in the state. In addition, his loss could be attributed to a mistake by the match officials or a temporary injury. In either event it is conceivable that the boy in question could actually be the best wrestler, in his weight division, in the state of Pennsylvania.

"A possible solution is that a state commission be formed to establish by-laws and regulations governing the format and all relevant points concerning the tournaments which eventually lead to the state finals.

"Some points that might be considered by such a commission are: a uniform policy concerning the 88 lb. weight division, whether or not team points are to be awarded (Pennsylvania is the only state, where state finals are held, that does not award team points), what criteria should be used in seeding, and what type of award, if any, should be presented to contestants.

"Another point which should be considered is advancing both the champion and the runner-up of each of the tournaments leading to the state finals. Admittedly, this system would involve longer tournaments but I feel it would result in a fairer representation of the outstanding caliber of wrestling in the state of Pennsylvania. As was previously mentioned, this method would take a bit more time but if the object of our tournaments is expediency, it would be far more expedient to eliminate them altogether.

"Still another point for consideration is the selection of tournament officials. Officials could be selected by the commission based on the recommendations of the coaches themselves. Each official could have a rating sheet to be submitted by each coach following dual meets. The officials with the most consistently good ratings could be selected for the tournaments.

"If you feel that any of these points bear merit, please contact District 10, Committee Chairman, Mr. Fred Clark, Harbor Creek High School, at Harbor Creek, Pa., and Mr. Keith Stoner, Secretary, District 10 Committee, Hickory Jr. High School, Sharon, Pa. Help make your opinions known."

Olson, Heeter Win First Places in Gals' Turney

Joyce Olson and Joyce Heeter swept honors in singles and all-events categories respectively in the Warren Women's Bowling Association Handicap Tournament held last month.

The list of winners in each event were announced earlier this week.

Mrs. Olson toppled 593 pins to win first place money in singles and added high games in two extra classes with handicap and "scratch".

Mrs. Heeter dominated the all-events category with a 1683 total and took the second place prize in the high single scratch standings.

Helen Anthony finished behind Mrs. Olson in the singles event with a 590 and posted the fourth highest handicapped game. Taking third in the final singles standings was Dot Atkins with 586 and Treva Carlson scored 583 for fourth position.

Jennie Anderson was runner-up in the all-events class with a 1656 total and the third high score of 1650 was shared by Millie Baldensperger and Rita Lindgren.

Betty Pascuzzi rolled the second highest handicapped single game score, 228.

Complete prize lists were as follows:

Market Cautious, Gold Stocks Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market backed away cautiously Friday amid the usual uncertainties, enhanced by the approaching weekend. Gold mining stocks were strong.

A rally by golds both on the New York and American stock exchanges continued for the second day as demand for gold continued strong in European bullion markets. Strength in the market for gold itself and for gold mining shares throughout the world was accompanied by rumors that the United States might make some major decision on gold over the weekend — a rumor vigorously denied by a spokesman for the U.S. Treasury.

Worry about Vietnam, especially the situation at Khe Sanh, and about the domestic economy continued to put investors off stride.

Nevertheless, there was sufficient interest among blue chips to cushion the decline in the popular averages even as some of the recently favored glamour stocks took another beating.

The Dow Jones Industrial average took a tiny loss of .06 at $40.44.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks sustained a minor decline of .1 at 305.5 with industrials up .5, rails off .8 and utilities up .3.

Volume was 8,611 million shares compared with 7,711 million Thursday.

It was the last of six weeks of shortened sessions, reduced to four hours from the usual 5½, so that brokerage houses could clear up mountains of paper work in their back offices. The exchanges return to the regular-length sessions Monday.

Of 1,430 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 825 fell and 397 rose. New highs for 1967-68 totaled 21 and new lows 66.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks fell and four rose.

The New York Stock Exchange index fell 16 cents to $49.58.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange but golds and some other metal stocks did well. Volume was 3,941 million shares compared with 3,111 million Thursday.

THE 19TH BIRTHDAY OF NEWCOMERS CLUB is to be celebrated this next Thursday, March 7th at 6:30 p.m. in First Presbyterian's Fellowship Hall. Miss Anne Lesser will give a talk on Brass Rubbings, and there will be installation of new board members. The club is a branch of the Welcome Wagon. Dues for the coming year, $3.50 may be paid at the meeting. Mrs. C. C. Winans and Mrs. Ann Smith will be hostesses for the evening.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON a benefit will be held for the Inter-Faith Chapel to be built at Warren State Hospital. The benefit will be in the form of a Singspiration; a free-will offering will be taken. There are a total of twelve churches participating in the work of raising money for the chapel. Tomorrow's Singspiration will take place at 3 p.m. at Calvary Baptist Church on Conewango avenue, under the leadership of Walter Buchanan. The Protestant chaplain at State Hospital, the Rev. Frank Hagberg, will be present to give a talk on the progress of the project, and will accept the offering for the chapel. All the public is invited.

MINIATURES: The Fellowship Class of CMA Church is meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams this evening at 7:30. For a ride just call Douglas Anderson at 723-5844. All are urged to attend.

All Pittsfield TV Cable members are to attend a meeting Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the Pittsfield Community Center. Any questions will be answered by men present from the Youngsville TV Corporation.

The Youngsville Pre-School Mothers Club meets Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Youngsville Elementary School all-purpose room. Andy Yurick, physio-therapist, will be the speaker. Serving on committee will be Mrs. Thomas Drayer, Mrs. Ted Rosequist and Mrs. O. F. Gannoe Jr.

The Warren General Hospital Nurses Alumni is meeting at 8 o'clock on Monday evening at the Meadowbrook Dairy social rooms on Lookout street.

All the Pre-School Mothers Club members of Warren are reminded that the March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Fair, 18 Glenwood avenue on Monday evening (the time was not mentioned). Robert Hammerbeck will give commentary and show slides on his "Aqua Tots" program at the YMCA. Bring pictures of your children for the scrapbook.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One of the best things about your column is that it presents proof positive—every day—that it takes all kinds of people to make a world.

I refer to the letter from the woman who called her husband a jerk because he was always knocking himself out doing favors for people. It seems she was mad at him because he loaned money, let neighbors borrow his garden tools, fixed things that broke—the list was a long one.

I wish I could trade husbands with her. She would love Harold. He refuses to lend a neighbor a screwdriver. He won't let me drive my cousin to the hospital to see her father because "I am not running a taxi service." I can't befriend a young girl who had a baby out of wedlock because "she made her bed, now let her lie in it."

Harold is a good provider. We have all the necessities and many of the comforts, but he is unable to open his heart and do an act of kindness. How can I raise our children to be generous and considerate with a father who is so selfish and cold?—ICY WINDS

Dear Icy: By being twice as generous and considerate to make up for Harold's unfortunate limitations. Make certain your husband doesn't deny you the right to do the things YOU want to do. If he doesn't wish to lend a screwdriver to a neighbor that's up to him. But if you want to befriend a young girl who had a baby out of wedlock, (or anyone else, for that matter) that's up to you.

Tomorrow At Grace Methodist

At 11 a.m. tomorrow the Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold its Thank Offering Service at Grace Methodist Church. The Rev. Everett Woodcock, missionary to the Southern Congo, will be the speaker and women of the WSCS will take part in the service and serve as ushers. Also new members will be received into the fellowship of Grace Church at the morning service.

J. Richard Pratt, organist, will play for the prelude "Two Chorale Preludes" by Leupold and "Jesus Still Leads On" by Leupold for the postlude. The Men's Quartet composed of Wayne Price, Earl Ericson, Jack Ross and Roger Thoma will sing "The Beautiful Message of Love" by Hughes and Mr. Ericson will direct the Senior Choir anthem, "A Lenten Meditation" by Pasquet with Mr. Thoma as soloist.

The Rev. Woodcock of Cochranton, Penna., who has returned to the States for a year's furlough from his missionary duties, has been a financial officer, rural church specialist, audio-visual and radio evangelist in the Congo. He is a native of Meadville and attended Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree. He then studied at the Westminster Seminary, Westminster, Md., now known as the Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, D.C., and received the Bachelor of Sacred Theology degree. Before going to Africa in 1945, he held Methodist pastorates in Pennsylvania.

REV. EVERETT WOODCOCK

The missionary will also speak at the Russell Methodist Church at 6:30 tomorrow evening, addressing the MYF groups, and at 7:30 he will speak to the adults.

Guest Speaker From Peru Tomorrow at 1st Baptist

The speaker at the morning and evening services tomorrow at the First Baptist Church, 208 Market street, will be the Rev. Robert Wacker. For the past 17 years, Mr. Wacker has been with the Wycliffe Bible Translators in Peru, South America.

Prior to this, he was associated with the American Sunday School Union in Southern California. During World War II, he was affiliated with the Navigators Organization. He is a member of the Evangelical Mission Covenant Church of San Diego. In the evening service, he will present the motion picture "Journey To Ward Today".

Mr. Wacker will be in this area for two weeks. Besides the Sunday services at the First Baptist, he will be speaking at

Philomel Program

The regular meeting of the Philomel Club of Warren will occur next Wednesday evening, March 6, at eight o'clock in the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Florence Aldrich will be chairman of the program based on the theme, "Song and Dance." For the first number of the evening entertainment, Mrs. Everett Borg will sing a group of four songs: "Panis Angelicus" by Franck, "Sing Me to Sleep" by Greene, "Mah Curly-Headed Baby" lullaby by Clutsam, and "Ave Maria" by Schubert. Mrs. Robert Sandblade and Mrs. Reese Campbell will play the cello and piano accompaniment.

For the second group, Mrs. Glenn Fraser will play MacDowell's composition called "Six Little Pieces", which includes "Courante", "Menuet", "Gigue", "Menuet", "Menuet", and "Marche".

If you have trouble getting along with your parents...if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Let's talk
dry cleaning"

By HOWARD JARVIS

The average person buys clothes more for style and appearance than anything else (we won't get into the argument about whether women buy clothes to please men or to impress other women!).

But there are factors in cut and construction which have a lot to do with the lasting attractiveness of your clothes.

Take, for example, "bias-cut" clothes. This is a familiar term in the clothing industry for a garment in which different pieces are cut and seamed so that the direction of the yarns is at an angle where the pieces are joined, rather than running parallel.

Inferior bias-cut garments will tend to wear less than more conventionally constructed fabrics. Since the pieces are woven in different directions at the point of joining, they may shrink unevenly, or in different directions when cleaned. The better the garment, the more it will resist such pulling and shrinking.

Better dry cleaning techniques and equipment mean more thorough cleaning without injury to your valuable clothing.

WOTM Mid-Winter Conference

At the regular meeting of Warren chapter No. 693, Women of The Moose, it was announced the bus to Kane for the Mid-Winter Conference on March 10, will leave the Moose Lodge in Warren at 11:30 a.m.; the meeting in Kane will start at 1:30 p.m.

The registration fee is to be 50 cents per person, and after the conference, a dinner will be served at $1 each. Those having collegian robes and white formals are requested to bring them to the conference.

At the meeting of the Warren chapter on Wednesday Senior Regent Joyce Bell presided. Balloting and ritual practice were held. It was announced that articles for another balloon benefit to be held on Saturday, March 23, are to be brought to the Moose Lodge room no later than March 20. The next meeting will be on Wednesday, March 13, at 8 p.m.

Veteran Patients Entertained At State Hospital

The Cootie and Cootiette clubs and the Dads of Foreign Service Veterans entertained Veteran patients recently. The Country Strings provided the program for the affair: Clifford Church, John Trayer and Robert Frazier.

The guests of honor were each served refreshments of ice cream, cake, and candy, and given magazines and tobacco. The Hayseed Cootiette Club presented each guest a ballpoint pen.

The following were present from the Cootie and Cootiette clubs: Lowell McCann, Axel and Alice Nasman, Paul and Mary Johnson, Pete and Marian Baxter, Joe and Alvine Wilks, Henry and Mary Tellman, Shirley and Ann Dunkle, Ethel Johnson, Katherine Lingo, all of Warren; Laurel Crowley of the Veterans Administration Deputy of the Erie V.A. Hospital. From the Dads of Foreign Service Veterans, Bill and Ruby Weaver of Warren.

Peter H. Ostergard, who is doing graduate work for his Master's degree in Computer Science at Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas, has been promoted to the rank of Captain in the United States Air Force.

Captain Ostergard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerould Ostergard, 104 Roy street, and is a Warren High School, and, Grove City College graduate. He resides with his wife, Marilyn, and son, Michael, at Apt. No. 41, 1602 S. College avenue, Bryan, Texas.

Robert Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaffer of 620 Conewango avenue, who spent six months in Spain studying Spanish and Spanish culture at the University of Valladolid, received a "B" average for the term. He has now returned to Lock Haven College where he is in his Junior year of studies.

Bill Shaffer, also the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaffer, who is majoring in Oceanography at the University of Wisconsin, was named to the Dean's List. He made a 3.62 average for the first semester.

Margaret Shaffer, their sister, is presently studying for her Master's degree in Biology and Education at the Pennsylvania State University, and has been elected a member of the Alpha Kappa chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, honorary society. She was recommended for the honor by the faculty of the College of Education, by members of the chapter, and through her high scholastic standing. She received a 4.0 average for the Fall term.

A 1 3/4 ounce jar of red cinnamon candies makes about 1/4 cup. The candies are good to use with apples—baked, coddled or steamed. Usually the candies are melted in the sugar syrup to be used with the apples.

Gumdrops, cut in small pieces, may be added to a hand-shaped or drop cookie dough; but licorice flavored gumdrops should be excluded.

More men than women died of cancer last year. The American Cancer Society says this has been true since 1949. The ratio in 1968 will be about 55 men to 45 women.

Snowmobiling a Growing Sport

FAMILY FUN

As Bill Acklin Jr., his wife Janet, and two of their children, Billy and Eddie, demonstrate, the snowmobile is basically a family recreation. The Acklins, who own two snowmobiles, are actively involved in the sport on most of their winter weekends, and willingly cooperated for all of the photographs seen in this series.

USED FOR SKIING

Although ski slopes are plentiful in the area, since the snowmobile arrived on the scene, many skiers have adopted the machines for cross country skiing jaunts. Much like water skiing, a tow rope is attached to the rear of the snowmobile enabling a skier to be towed effortlessly across miles of perfectly flat terrain, as demonstrated by Mrs. Emory Mahan.

COMMON SIGHT

A common sight on Warren County highways these winter months is a car or truck towing a trailer with a snowmobile. Families who spent their summer weekends camping and combing the woodlands of the area are doing much the same thing with their winter weekends using the popular little powered sleds.

By DAVE KNIGHT

Only a nation as transportation conscious as the United States could conceive of incorporating the use of a small powered sled into their leisure hours of recreational activity . . . yet, the evidence of this new craze which has taken the nation by storm can readily be seen throughout Warren County as more and more area residents are becoming involved in the sport of snowmobiling.

The snowmobile is a snappy little motorized sled which utilizes a rotating track, similar to those used on bulldozers, for propulsion. The vehicle is controlled and operated by a motorcycle-type handlebar assembly connected to a pair of ski-type runners mounted on the front of the machine. All motivating controls on the machine are hand operated, with the accelerator mounted on one side of the handlebars and the brake controls mounted on the other. The simplicity of operation enables even a child to control the machine with ease.

Aside from the obvious attraction, ease of operation, the one other factor governing the popularity of the snowmobile seems to be that they make an excellent family outing vehicle. Experts estimate that over 100,000 Americans will purchase snowmobiles before the winter months have ended.

In Warren County the sight of a car or truck towing a trailer with one or more of the little vehicles in tact is becoming increasingly common. Many area families who spent their summer weekends camping, picnicking or hiking through the abundant forest of the area are doing much the same thing on winter weekends, but in lieu of hiking the snowmobile is used to whisk mom, dad and the kids through the woods.

Skiers in the area have adopted the snowmobile for cross country skiing jaunts, using the snowmobile in much the same manner that boats are used during the summer months for water skiing.

Many of the heartier sportsmen in the county have modified the perky little vehicles turning them into racing machines. Drivers and spectators alike find the competition of snowmobile racing more than just a little exciting. Snowmobiles modified for racing can reportedly attain speeds of over 80 mph.

Although the present popularity of snowmobiles in Warren County is more in a recreational vein, the sprightly little snow vehicles have their practical usage also. In Alaska the snowmobile has all but replaced the dogsled. Foresters, loggers, trappers, and pipeline and powerline maintenance men in the upper northern reaches of Canada and the United States have found the motorized sleds to be invaluable. Police in some of these remote areas are using the snowmobile for patrols. In general many areas made inaccessible by snow in the winter months are now easily reached with the help of the snowmobile.

Locally the snowmobile has already been put to practical use in search and rescue work in the area woodlands, and the possibility of future similar usage is not inconceivable.

The snowmobile has many practical and recreational attributes, however there are two sides to everything, and some points concerning the vehicles should be considered. One important point which should not be overlooked is the fact that snowmobiles are motor vehicles and consequently when operating a snowmobile, rules and safety precautions observed with other motor vehicles should also be observed with a snowmobile. A snowmobile safety code and code of ethics were discussed in Larry Stotz column which appeared in the Feb 2 publication of the TM&O.

EASY

The sprightly little powered sled is so easy to operate and maneuver even a small child can handle the controls. It would be a safe guess however, when a child is at the controls, mom or dad are not too far behind. Snowmobiles, despite their ease of operation, are still a motor vehicle and all safety precautions and motor vehicle rules should be observed when operating the machine.

Another item not to be overlooked when considering the purchase of a snowmobile for recreational purposes, is the price tag. Snowmobiles, which can be purchased locally from any one of at least 11 dealers carry a price tag in the three or four figure category. Prices usually range from around $700 or $800 to as high as $2,300 to $2,400, an investment not easily ignored by many family men. The vehicles are gasoline powered, and although the small size of the engine makes the vehicle economical to run, there is an expense involved.

However all things considered the snowmobile is definitely a fun type of recreation, whether your interests lie in family participation activities or toward the more competitive sports activities. For Warren County residents, with the Allegheny National Forest practically in the back yard, the potential and possibilities for snowmobiling are innumerable.

Educational TV Schedule*Selected Viewing

Saturday, 10 p. m. — SPEAKING FREELY features a discussion with Harold MacMillan, former prime minister of Great Britain. MacMillan, whose memoirs concerning his experiences during World War II have just been published, talks about events during that period and recent happenings in the world.

Sunday, 8:30 p. m. — PUBLIC BROADCAST LABORATORY, an exciting experiment in educational television, looks at events that are shaping our lives and our world. Topics to be covered range from international crises to the creative arts.

Monday, 9 p. m. — NET JOURNAL examines how our lives and thoughts become a matter of record through violations of "The Right of Privacy." The program investigates computers, lie-detector tests, personality tests, and other methods which can be used to infringe upon the individual's privacy.

Tuesday, 9:30 p. m. — THE BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONCERTS presents selections from the works of Robert Schumann and Gustav Mahler. Under the direction of Erich Leinsdorf, the Orchestra performs Schumann's "Overture to Byron's 'Manfred,' Op. 115" and Mahler's "Symphony No. 6 in A Minor." The Mahler work features instruments not found in more conventional selections.

Wednesday, 10 p. m. — REPERTORY THEATRE USA presents an "Irish Triple Bill." The program features the dramas of Bernard Shaw, William Butler Yeats, and Samuel Beckett — three great playwrights bound together by their rich Irish imagination and a profound quest for the truth.

Thursday, 9:30 p. m. — PENNSYLVANIA MAGAZINE features David H. McKinley, associate dean of Penn State's College of Business Administration, in a discussion of the American economy in a time of limited war. On "Business Outlook," McKinley and other members of Penn State's faculty will focus on the national budget, inflation control, and wage and price ceilings.

Friday, 10 p. m. — NET PLAYHOUSE presents "Auto-Stop," the story of a young Englishman who hitchhikes through Europe to impress an "older" woman and finds that his travels have helped him grow up. Making his American television debut, British actor David Hemmings stars in the production.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—The elements for success are abundant now, but some may be hidden, and the way you seek them out will greatly decide HOW you will succeed.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Begin new, creative work, take up a refreshing diversion, practice a skill. Day favors the arts and sciences to a high degree; also friendships and romance.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—As with many today, restlessness or overeagerness could set you off too readily on a detrimental bent, a truly wrong turn. Emphasize your innate keenness of perception.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—You have a bright outlook but, nevertheless, will have to strive steadily to attain your goals. Don't think you can scale the heights without proper planning and consistent effort.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Venture where a belief is sound and data readily available. In the latter connection, you may have to search more. If anything is worth doing, it usually entails complexities, but also bigger rewards.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—If a new proposition is put to you, consider whether or not it is feasible, but don't ask so many unreasonable questions that you lose out-on opportunity, or that the parties involved lose THEIR interest in YOU.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Leave the status quo in all phases of your life unless you are forced to make changes because of unexpected circumstances. But, even then, act reservedly. SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Can you improve some facets of everyday life and your career this week-end? It would facilitate matters next week. But don't neglect rest, relaxation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Mixed influences. You may get off on the wrong foot if you don't mind your "p's and q's." Preview what you would attempt; don't be short with others.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Forget annoying situations of the past. This day is here for your pleasure; grasp it with relish, and mold it in a helpful pattern. It can produce.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Hold the fort against intruders who merely pry and probe without good purpose, but don't let "nerves" get you down. Concentrate on activities that are salutary and relaxing.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Wait until sure, then move gradually toward your objectives; speed up tempo if necessary. But, in any event, don't become over-anxious. Easy does it now!

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a bright mind; are always quick to act; friendly; adept in large enterprises, working with groups; may become spokesman for family, community, co-workers. You are anxious to please; are sensitive, too. Varied interests suit your talents. You may be too aggressive at times, tend to over-excitement. Curb impetuosity in romance, changing abodes, jobs. Birthdate of: Pope Leo XIII; Sam Houston, Amer. Gen'l.; Sir Thomas Bodley, scholar, diplomat.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

PERVERTED APPETITE

Specific craving for dirt, clay, starch, baking soda, and other inedibles is a common practice among women of lower socioeconomic groups, especially when pregnant. They believe that starch and clay prevent nausea, dizziness, and keep the baby from being "marked." Many suffer from malnutrition and eat laundry starch or clay with religious fervor.

This habit, known as pica, is more common in small children who also eat cigaret butts, lint, bugs, and flakes of paint. Youngsters outgrow the habit and are not harmed except when they eat flakes of lead paint. This is now one of the most common causes of poisoning in this country.

Men rarely are afflicted with pica. Women who indulge are not harmed unless they eat clay or starch to the exclusion of nourishing foods. They become malnourished with a protein deficiency.

Doctor Rocquelyn Jastak of Detroit recently reported an unusual side effect of eating too much laundry starch. The victim was a 51-year-old woman who consumed three-quarters of a pound daily for 10 years. The parotid glands, located in front and slightly below the outer ear, began to swell. She looked as tho she had mumps. The relationship between the swollen glands and the starch diet was not known except that malnutrition is associated occasionally with swelling of the parotid glands.

For many years the habit of eating strange things was blamed on a deficiency of certain chemicals in the blood. An example of this was the migration of animals and man to salt licks when the supply in the body was depleted.

Another is a craving for items containing iron when anemia exists. This is not always true because most of the inedibles do not contain nutrients. Women who eat clay and starch do so because their mother and grandmother did. Ignorance plays an important role.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

RED FACE AFTER DRINKING

E. B. writes: I read about something that makes the face turn red when the person takes a drink of beer or whisky. Where can I buy the stuff?

REPLY

I don't know. Antabuse and apomorphine make the drinker sick as a dog. These products require a prescription and must be taken under the doctor's supervision. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on alcoholism.

UNTYING TUBES

A reader writes: If the tubes were tied five years ago, could they be untied so I could become pregnant?

REPLY

Yes, but there are technical difficulties and few women become pregnant after the operation.

God's Revolution

Rip Van Winkle was a heavy sleeper!

Washington Irving's classic, Rip Van Winkle, has been a favorite for generations. It is the story of a neighborly but idle man who spent much of his time debating dead issues with friends or hunting squirrels in the Catskill mountains with his dog.

On one hunting venture, Rip Van Winkle took a nap. Eventually when he awakened he discovered he had been sleeping for twenty years.

The significance of Irving's story is not in the long, unusual nap but Rip's discovery of a changed world. The point, I believe, is suggested in the signs which hung above the door of the local inn.

The day Rip Van Winkle left the sign pictured George III, King of England. The day on which he returned the sign pictured General Washington.

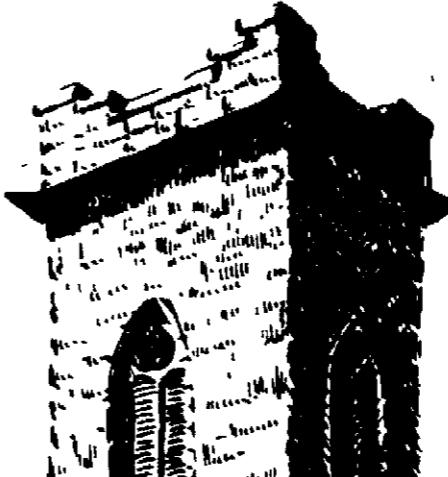

Rip Van Winkle had slept through a revolution!

Has there ever been a time in history equal to the revolutionary changes occurring in our day? We live in an age which is self-consciously open to new ideas and new ways. We have the "new" math, "new" English, "new" morality, "new" theology. The changes of today are so rapid that that which was thought new today is obsolete tomorrow. There is abundant evidence that we are living in revolutionary times.

There are several revolutions going on.

In science, man is assuming more dominion over the earth (and space). There is the revolution for racial freedom in which the dark skinned will no longer be second to the pink minority. There is the revolution for peace in which we find ourselves geared to a cold war economy. And there is the secular revolution in which the Church is being challenged.

What is the role of the Church in these revolutionary times? The role of the Church is to proclaim the Biblical truth that we believe in a God who demands change and renewal. The Scriptural witness is to this dynamic, living God. The God who can be our foundation of faith is the

CILDREN'S COLUMNWONDERFUL WORLD

(Editor's Note: TMC columnist Don Neal recently addressed two fifth grade elementary classes on water pollution. He found their interest and questions keen and has written several columns of interest to children of late elementary and early junior high school age. The first of these follows.)
BY DON NEAL

If you could be the first boy or girl from Earth to go to Mars, what would you expect to find there? Little green men? Fantastic animals that would send little shivers running up and down your spine as they gazed at you through their enormous eyes or reached out to take you in their sharp claws? Or maybe you would expect to walk through groves of leafless trees, their huge trunks supporting an umbrella-like crown whose underside would thrill you with its exciting colors.

Well, I can't tell you where to find little green men. But I can tell you where to find fantastic animals and leafless trees without the bother of booking passage on a space ship and flying off to Mars. They're right out there in your own backyard, or at least not too far away in some vacant field or lot. And all you have to have to go exploring in this wonderful world almost at your feet is an itchy curiosity, an imagination that knows no bounds, and perhaps a magnifying glass to enlarge the wonders of the curious things you will come across as your safari gets deeper and deeper into the jungles of "backyardland."

But there's no use in trying to kid you, of course. By now you have probably guessed that the fantastic animals will be the various insects, reptiles and mammals that live both above and below the ground in your backyard, and the leafless trees will be the mushrooms and toadstools that grow there. But have you ever held a big grasshopper within inches of your face and looked it squarely in the eye, or laying flat on the ground let a crayfish or crab reach for your nose with its pincers? If this didn't thrill you as much as any Martian experience could, then you need both a magnifying glass and a pep up imagination.

Truthfully, if I search diligently I can find in my own backyard creatures that, except for their size, can put any storybook dragon to shame. So it's quite a simple thing to get them into focus with my magnifying glass and let my imagination take over to where they become gigantic prehistoric mastodons or escapees from some underground cavern. Certainly they are hideous enough to be either.

For this purpose, the insects are my favorites. First, I suppose, because they have inhabited the earth longer than any of the others, and then because they have retained most of the repulsive features we associate with the early forms of life that crawled up out of the steaming swamps a few million years ago. In fact, I once saw a fly that had been entrapped in amber over forty million years ago and it closely resembled any fly you might see today in your home.

How could this be? Well to begin with, amber is nothing more than a resin from trees that was expelled millions of years ago and in the course of time it became fossilized. At the time it was quite like the sticky resin we see seeping from pine trees today, so that when insects settled on it their feet became fast and they couldn't get away. Slowly, the resin covered the fly and preserved it in the substance that eventually became amber.

This was not an unusual case. All kinds of early insects, both those that resemble present day insects and those that don't, have been found preserved in amber.

The beetles are perhaps the most interesting. At least they come close to being the ugliest, and there are more different kinds of them (species) than any other of the insect families. Would you believe there are a quarter-million different kinds of beetles? Well, that would be close. Actually there are 276,700 different species of them.

The house fly? Only a mere 85,000 in the whole Diptera family. But it has been estimated that if the descendants of a single pair of house flies lived and did well from April through August of any year they would add 190,000,000,000,000,000,000 flies to the world's population of houseflies. It's fortunate for us that so few flies fail to live out their lives because of natural enemies and natural controls. Otherwise, we would be swamped with flies in no time at all.

Yes, I find the world of the insect just as interesting and involving as I do the study of their grotesque appearance through the all-seeing eye of my magnifying glass. It is a strange world, a vast world, and a world that is almost entirely unknown to the boy or girl who thinks that only on the planets of outer space can they experience the thrill of coming face to face with almost impossible forms of life, some of which have cultures that come close to rivaling our own civilization.

Yet the world of the insect is but one of the many facets that go to make up the total greatness of "This Wonderful World" in which we live. It is my hope that through future columns I can lead you to study every one of these facets and gain a fuller appreciation of the wonders of nature that surround us on every side. If properly done, it will be an enjoyable experience for you and a rewarding one for me.

Players to Present
'Light Up the Sky'

Warren's Player's Club will present "Light Up the Sky" by Moss Hart, a comedy in three acts, on March 15 and 16, at Beatty Junior High School auditorium. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Directed by Paul Myers, the play was written by Moss Hart in 1948 and is a satirical study of a group of temperamental actors and actresses. Hart, born in 1904, was noted for comedy written in collaboration with George S. Kaufman. His forte was witty dialogue, deftly drawn and somewhat exaggerated. "Light Up the Sky" is an excellent example of the playwright's talent.

Action centers in the living-room of Irene Livingston's Ritz-Carlton hotel suite in Boston and features the following cast: Nancy Scott as Miss Lowell, Irene Livingston's secretary and ghost writer working on Irene's biography; Carleton Fitzgerald, William Odell, director of the play; Frances Black, Nancy Morrison, glamorous but tough, an ice skating celebrity who married Sidney.

Owen Turner, played by Jim Hartman. Turner is a playwright. Rachel Wood as Stella Livingston, mother of the Star with the spirit of a Dead End Kid; Dane Barber as Peter Sloan, soft spoken truckdriver who has turned playwright; Robert Hunt, Sidney Black, 40-year-old millionaire.

Don Pearson, who also heads up set construction, will appear as Sven the massuer. Diana Kerr portrays Irene Livingston, the great star; Jim Eldridge is Tyler Rayburn, the meek and mild husband of the great star; Bob Whitehill is William H. Gallagher, a Shriner in love with the theater and particularly the new play.

Rounding out the cast are Bill Kerr as Max, a drunken Shriner and Michael Gettig playing a plain clothes man.

Director Myers, a math teacher at Beatty Junior High School, has been active in Players for 17 years, appearing in Caine Mutiny Court Marshall, Jenny Kissed Me, Male Animal, Guest in the House, Song of Bernadette, Teahouse of the August Moon and others.

Paul is married to the former Virginia Plum and the father of three sons, Bruce, Jeff and Greg.
